

Concept Question 1-1: What are the differences between a device, a circuit, and a system?

A device is a single circuit element, such as a resistor; a circuit is a subsystem that consists of several devices, such as an amplifier; and a system consists of multiple subsystems, such as a mobile phone.